introduction by Gabriele Monti

ENDYMA is a fashion archive based in Berlin. ENDYMA's collection spans the work of many renowned designers from the 1980s and 1990s, including the biggest collection of vintage Helmut Lang in the world. The conversation will explore how fashion heritage can inspire and give shape to today's creative work, the archive's intricate restoration operations when working with historical clothing, and what the concept of an "archive" is actually about.
